Further to email exchange regarding EA request for further ecological survey, Tom Cooke advised that in the opinion of the EA, the ditches on the site have potential to support important invertebrate, plant and fish populations despite being culverted under the M20 and despite fluctuation and low water levels. AB requested information on the survey techniques that the EA would suggest in order to obtain the required information in proportion to the proposed impacts and further information on the extent of survey considered reasonable (given the nature of the ditches on site). Tom Cooke will liaise with the relevant fish specialist and provide further information on proposed survey techniques. Tom Cooke agreed that the scope of further survey work could be agreed by the EA in advance of surveys being undertaken to ensure that appropriate data is collected.
